

Camplemans – further suggestions

Ralph Campleman probate 1803

m. 1) Rachel Ward 23 April 1758 Terrington, buried 1780 Terrington > the children are all hers. Also Wm. Campleman bapt 8 Jul 1739 Terrington

m.2) Hannah Hayes 20 Sept 1785 Terrington by licence but no bapt or bur. recorded in Terrington. There is a Hannah Hayes dau. of Richard Hayes bapt 1743 Slingsby. Could Hannah have been in service in Terrington?

Sarah Campleman bapt 31 July 1743 Terrington will be the daughter of Ralph & Rachel Didn't marry William Schoolcroft as mentioned in father's will. He married Ann Rousling [?] both of this parish June 30 1772 Hovingham.

Not found if she did marry, or where and when she was buried

Sarah Campleman daughter of Ralph Campleman Junior (ie RC probate 1803) bapt 4 June 1759 Terrington. Only child of Ralph & Sarah, it would seem.

Married Thomas Stephenson of Allerthorpe/Aberthorp 10 Jan 1778 Terrington.

Mary Stephenson bur. 10 July 1791 Allerthorpe. Thomas Stephenson bur. 14 Jul 1817 Bishop Wilton (Allerthorpe->Bishop Wilton = 7.7 miles)

Ralph Campleman probate 1770 – possible origins

A RC bapt. 21 May 1700 Bulmer son of Robert Campleman of Henderskelfe, Taylor and Anne his wife. Henderskelfe ie working for the Castle Howard & living in CH property, as Ganthorpe all was.

Unsolved questions: what was the connection with Scarborough? RC x2 definitely living in Terrington/Ganthorpe (builder & churchwarden). Scarborough lime kilns for building purposes? But local sources available for that. Lime used by this time for agricultural development purposes, so an investment? But why in Scarborough? He/they had a kiln in Terrington too – but malt. Maybe Scarborough property was an inheritance?

I've used Ancestry, Findmypast, Family Search. Their sources have been the Terrington Parish Registers transcriptions and originals in the Borthwick; Bulmer PRs in the Borthwick. Burial at Allerthorpe/Bishop Wilton via Ancestry
